How to Update Your Computer's Zoom App

You should regularly check to see if you have the latest version of Zoom. The fastest and easiest way to do this, although it's not the only way, is to start up your Zoom app on your computer.

On the main Zoom screen, look for a button in the upper right corner and click it.

You will have a menu displayed that has a lot of options. About ⅔ of the way down, is "Check for Updates." Click that and follow the onscreen prompts.

If there is an update, the screen will tell you what has been changed. If your software is up-to-date, it will tell you that, too. That's it!

When all else fails, you can always download and install the latest Zoom here (especially if you have never installed Zoom on your computer before):

but using the method above is a lot faster.

You want to check for updates on a regular basis since Zoom is always adding features and improving security.
